COKE'S 'A HIT'

Worrying number of heroin addicts using cocaine

by MIKE DIDYMUS

mdidymus@london.newsquest.co.uk

very worrying.

"The size of the drug problem has started to level out but we are getting more serious cases, although the police have been quite good to my knowledge in shutting down the crack dens.

"Cocaine gives people that sense they can get up and do things and then the heroin calms them down so it's a nice complement for them.

"The reason heroin users are particularly good for dealing is they are very vulnerable, so in order for them to get drugs a dealer will get them to deal or use their house for a crack den."

Kaleidoscope currently helps more than 250 people every week in Kingston by providing drug treatment, methadone dispensing and counselling services out of its headquarters in Cromwell Road, and works closely with police in the borough providing training and advice.

Mr Blakebrough said: "There's always more to do but Kingston police force is one of the more proactive – it's a much more manageable problem in Kingston but at the same time the police take it very seriously.

"We are probably one of the only drug areas where the police come to us to get training and that's really proactive. I feel that the police really try to understand the problem as well as dealing with the criminal consequences."

Detective Inspector Jez Clarke from Kingston police's intelligence unit, said Kingston being a nightclub hotspot might have something to do with dealers targeting the area.

He also said Kingston police would consider a one-day blitz of dealers to deal a considerable blow to supply chains, as was seen in Bradford recently, but added much of Kingston's dealing was street and car based.

Mr Blakebrough stressed the need for the implementation of an integrated drugs help service in the town to give addicts the best chance of rehabilitation.

He said: "It's much more powerful when it's properly integrated.

"The drug user really needs to go into one building with drug treatment officers, probation officers and things like needle exchange and I think it would make a massive difference if we could push forward with that."

Estate tenants take on thugs with 'DIY Asbos'

by KERRY GROVE

kgrove@london.newsquest.co.uk

Residents plagued by antisocial behaviour on a Surbiton council estate are investigating whether "DIY Asbos" could solve their problems.

The residents' association committee has decided to take action itself, after suffering weeks of vandalism, arson and intimidation.

Two weeks ago, police had to warn people at Headley, in King Charles Road, to remove their door mats, after newspapers and twigs were set alight outside elderly people's doors.

Since then, the sensors on their outside lighting have been stolen, pellet guns have been fired at windows and eggs have been splattered on cars.

The postman's mail was also stolen by youths, which was only recovered when a resident took chase.

Chairman of the residents' association Sadiq Mohamed said: "If there's a way that we can instigate something then we will because it will put pressure on everyone and it will make it a priority."

DIY: Chairman of the residents' association Sadiq Mohammed

He has sought advice from tenants' action group Instep about whether they have the power to issue their own Asbos.

He is also writing to every resident urging them to come forward and report their problems – and has offered to act as a mediator if they are too scared to approach police.

Plans to bring back a neighbourhood watch scheme after several years are also being considered to help unite residents against the thugs.

Problems peaked in the February half term and residents fear they will return during the Easter school holidays.

PC Paul Roe said police had stepped up patrols around the Alpha Road estate in the evenings and would be keeping a keener eye on the area over Easter.

Uncertain future: Centre manager Megan Dawson at the Magic Roundabout service
Deadlinepix Hy2187

Final turn for Roundabout?

The Magic Roundabout could still close, despite two new volunteers coming forward in a bid to save it.

The charity, which helps 11- to 19-year-olds with issues including sexual health and problems at home, still faces huge uncertainty this week.

It appealed for volunteers to help it raise the £20,000 a year it needs to survive and two people came forward.

But at the charity's annual general meeting on March 13, the volunteers were sent away to decide if they could make the appropriate commitment and then come up with some ideas.

The service, based in Canbury Park Road, has been helping youngsters for the last 15 years and at its peak it helped 4,000 teenagers in the borough every year.

It has been granted £30,000 for next year by Kingston Council, and a possible £7,000 by Kingston Primary Care Trust, but this does not up cover the £57,000 running costs.

Chairman Gary Allison admitted he was not optimistic. He said: "It's not just a case of getting any people interested because we need people who have some idea of how they are going to make up the financial deficit."

"It is a shame because we are not sure there is any similar service that could replace it in Kingston."

The charity was saved from closure following a high profile campaign three years ago.

A final decision over whether Magic Roundabout should close will be made over the next week.

Could you help the Magic Roundabout continue to support young people?

Nature reserve status for travellers' A3 site

Tolworth Court Farm and moated manor is set to become a recognised nature reserve, but nearby residents fear improved access will bring the return of unwanted travellers.

The site, near the A3 at Tolworth, will have its moat cleaned up, barbed wire removed and will receive more regular maintenance by Kingston Council.

But Councillor Ian George has warned the work will take at least a year because the council does not have enough money to pay for it.

Since being closed to the public when farming stopped there in the early 1990s, travellers have parked up on the land eight times and an illegal rave was held there.

Neighbours have also reported scrambler motorbikes causing distress to local wildlife and insisted access should be reduced.

An application for nature reserve status will now be made to the Government, and if granted will help protect the area from development and help secure extra grant funding.

David's training makes perfect Sense

With four weeks until the annual London Marathon, runners should be well into their training, just like New Malden runner David Kemp.

The 26-year-old will take on the gruelling race for the first time and is currently pounding the streets of his home town as well as Kingston, Surbiton and Richmond Park in a bid to add to the £1,500 he has already raised for national deafblind charity Sense.

Simon Taylor, Sense's London Marathon project manager, said: "We are delighted David is one of more than 400 people who have chosen to run the Flora London Marathon for Sense."

Weapon amnesty goes with a bang

by KERRY GROVE

kgrove@london.newsquest.co.uk

A haul of 21 imitation guns, one real gun and six knives were handed in as part of Kingston police's gun amnesty recently.

One of the stranger items handed in was an athletics starter's pistol, which was handed in anonymously by a local school.

New legislation came in last October banning the manufacture and selling of realistic handguns, and the three shops selling them in the borough have taken them off the shelves.

The amnesty was aimed at the families of 10 to 25-year-olds who might have had BB guns, air rifles or imitation guns to "show off" to friends.

Although it is not illegal to own imitation guns, 15 people have been arrested in the borough in the last year for threatening people with them, or causing fear or distress if people believed them to be real.

Inspector Matt James from Kingston police said: "What was nice to see was that a number of the guns were blank firing starting pistols. People decided they can start a race in another way, like with a whistle or a tone.

"Gun crime is very low in Kingston but it is not uncommon to have a call from a concerned person saying they have seen a person in possession of what they believe is a gun."

He added that gun crime was not as common in Kingston as other London boroughs but any offence could be serious and start further violence.

If anyone sees imitation guns on sale in a shop or on a stall, they should call their local safer neighbourhood team or Crime-stoppers on 0800 555111.

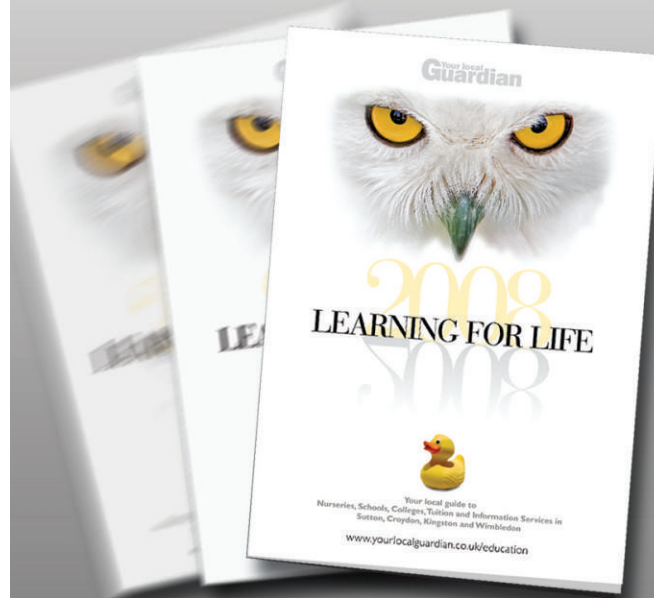

Science day's simply cosmic

Pupils at Holy Cross School in New Malden launched their participation in National Science and Engineering Week in style on Thursday, with the arrival of a nine-metre high Starchaser Rocket at the school.

The giant rocket was the centrepiece of a day of activities which included a talk from the Starchaser team about living in space and a cosmic chemistry class showing pupils how to make their own comet, produce water and create a homemade Aurora Borealis.

Not-so-rapid response

by MIKE DIDYMUS

mdidymus@london.newsquest.co.uk

A passenger who was injured when a bus smashed through a garden wall in Aragon Road, Kingston, on Saturday had to wait for nearly two hours before an ambulance could take him to hospital.

Worried residents called 999 immediately after the K5 bus hurtled into a pair of gardens at 2pm, destroying a boundary wall and tree, but police did not arrive until after further calls were made 25 minutes later.

The fire brigade made an appearance an hour after the initial smash, residents said, with an ambulance and a pair of breakdown lorries arriving soon after.

The passenger was thought to have suffered an asthma attack during the accident and was eventually taken to Kingston Hospital as a precautionary measure.

Resident John McParlane, who witnessed the aftermath of the collision, said he was shocked that the emergency services had taken so long to respond.

He said: "I would have thought that someone should have arrived within five or 10 minutes to assess the damage – I had to phone 999 again because I couldn't believe there was no sight or sound of any emergency services.

"While no one was badly injured or died, I am willing to bet that if this happened on a main road rather little old Aragon Road the response would have been quicker."

Racer face of charity

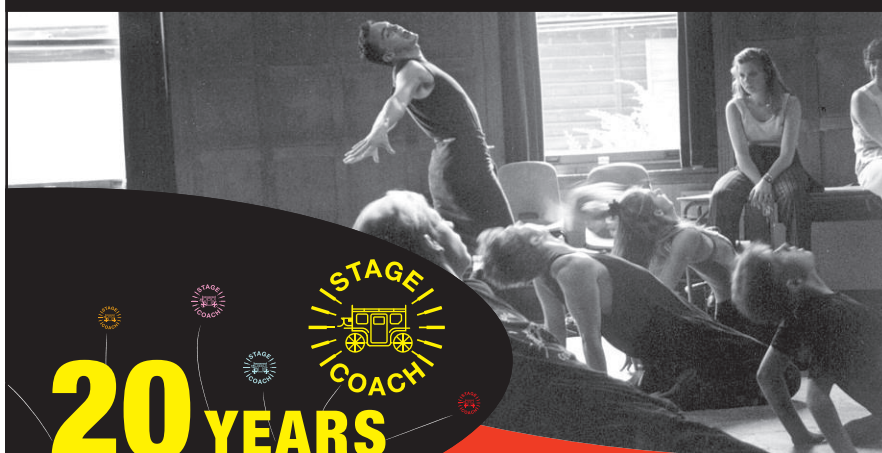

A young Kingston racing car driver has been chosen as the new face of a charity which supports friends and family of premature babies.

Tom Onslow-Cole, 20, a rising-star of the VX Racing team pictured above, has agreed to work with the UK-based charity Bliss to help raise money during the 2008 British Touring Car Championship season, through a series of events and track-side activities.

Mr Onslow-Cole said two of his racing teammates had premature babies.

'Support pubs'

Local pubs need loyal customers to survive in the face of increased beer duty, the Federation for Small Business said last week.

Chancellor Alistair Darling announced a 4p increase on a pint of beer in his budget, prompting fears locals would abandon pubs in favour of the cheap prices large supermarkets can offer.

John Wright, FSB national chairman, said: "The extra 4p on a pint of beer won't stop people binge drinking, but it might stop people going to the local pubs that support so many of our communities up and down the country."

"That's why it is so important that we get our message across to as many people as possible that we need to keep trade local."

Trust's meeting

Kingston Hospital Trust's March board meeting takes place on Wednesday, March 26, at 9.30am. The meeting is in seminar room one in the Kingston Surgical Centre at Kingston Hospital, Galsworthy Road. Refreshments are available from 9am with a chance to meet the board.

Sign up for the post

Hundreds of residents have signed petitions to save six local post offices from closure.

The campaign, being led by the Kingston Guardian's sister paper, the Surrey Comet, has seen people from all over the borough sign up.

The public consultation ends on Wednesday, April 2, and representations will then be considered by Post Office Ltd.

Kingston Council announced this week that it could not afford to take over the six post offices, after looking into ways it might run services.

Council leader Councillor Derek Osbourne said post offices could cost £18,000 each in subsidies every year.

Fitting a post office counter in existing council facilities is expected to cost about £50,000 and Coun Osbourne doubted Kingston's budget could stretch to it.

by KERRY GROVE

kgrove@london.newsquest.co.uk

He said: "What people want is for post offices to stay where they are and, unless there is a council facility next door, we are in difficulty."

He said the council would continue to look into ways it could provide post office services through community hubs, but emphasised the importance of fighting the closures.

Councillor Simon James added that a post office take over would probably involve a council tax increase. He said:

In protest: Residents fight to save local branches

"Some of the people who are most affected by the post office closures are the pensioners and they are the ones most affected by council tax. We would just be taking it straight back out of their pensions."

Pupils monitored online

Pupils at more than 40 schools across the borough are to be monitored online at school by specialist software to try to prevent bullying, use of inappropriate language and access of adult sites.

Kingston Council has appointed Surrey-based company Securus to provide software which automatically alerts teachers if children are accessing inappropriate web content or using threatening or abusive behaviour.

It will also warn of pupils who are showing signs of depression or suicidal tendencies or getting involved in potentially harmful situations involving predator grooming, sex or gambling.

Sally-Ann Griffiths, director of e-safety for Securus, said: "ICT offers many benefits to young people, but unfortunately, there are also risks. Local authorities and schools have a major responsibility to ensure that measures are implemented to lessen the impact of these potential risks."

"Securus is dedicated to protecting children through the use of technology, and we look forward to working in partnership with Kingston to improve the e-safety of school pupils across the area."

Train chaos over Easter

Railway track repairs over the Easter weekend will mean a reduced service for passengers between Surbiton and New Malden and London Waterloo.

Passengers are advised to avoid travelling through Clapham Junction, with £3million of track replacements closing the line to Wimbledon.

Mainline services will be diverted between Woking and Clapham Junction, meaning a less frequent service through Surbiton and New Malden on Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Network Rail route director David Pape said: "We have been working hard to plan and prepare for this project, which will lead to a more reliable railway and a better service for passengers."

"Clapham Junction is a vital and busy part of the network and while this means that more passengers will experience these benefits, we would also advise people to check their plans prior to travelling."

Enough recycling? Councillor Steve Mama at Cambridge Road estate

Deadlinepix KT19881

Councillor slams recycle 'gimmick'

by KERRY GROVE

kgrove@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingston's only Labour councillor has branded the borough's recycling contract a "gimmick" and said people in flats would not recycle as much as the council hoped.

The 14-year contract with Veolia will start in September, but Kingston Council admitted it had still not got to grips with recycling in flats. Councillor Steve Mama said people in Cambridge Road and Cambridge Gardens estates were recycling at a rate of one in 11 flats, using the council's orange sack scheme.

He added: "Until you crack that problem you cannot enter into such a long contract. I think it's a gimmick."

Councillor Liz Green, member for the environment, said take-up rates for recycling on the estates were significantly higher than one in 11. She said: "I haven't got a clue what we are going to do at Charter Quay. You can't get in there."

Under the regime, recyclables and food waste will be collected weekly, while landfill rubbish will be collected fortnightly. Recyclables will be put in four separate bins.

Flats in the Cambridge Road and Cambridge Gardens estates have been running recycling trials for 18 months and last summer the Alpha Road estate and private blocks were added to the "orange sack" trial.

Food waste has been collected separately at 6,000 properties for several months.

Where's the police? Comet competition

Young voices fill Rose – and audience seats

by ALITA HOWE

ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

The Rose Theatre was alive with the sound of music last week, as more than 800 school children packed the halls for the annual junior music festival.

The festival, organised by Kingston Music and Arts Service (KMAS) and Kingston Primary Schools' Music Association, is usually held in Dorking.

The completion of the Rose Theatre has allowed the festival to be held in the borough for the first time in its 12 year history.

Children from 26 primary schools sang a collection of songs spanning the 20th century, from war time tunes to Beatles classics.

Aine Lark, acting head of KMAS, said the two-day festival on March 12 and 13 was "absolutely fantastic" and said being able to hold the event on Kingston's "doorstep" had doubled the number of participants and the audience.

She said: "The whole experience for everyone was absolutely invigorating."

"We know the value of the arts as a transformational tool and we're delighted at how hard the children worked."

"It was such a great opportunity for them to experience this fantastic space and it was lovely to see the audience enjoying themselves, singing along and tapping their feet."

Homepath-GP tells of trial

Jayne Donegan spoke for the first time about her trial with the General Medical Council (GMC) at a talk to Educare Small School in Kingston.

The GP was accused of peddling "junk science" in supporting two mothers in their divorce cases.

Their former partners claimed negligence as the mothers opposed vaccination of their children.

Dr Donegan was cleared by the GMC, but the children were forcibly vaccinated by order of the appeal court, after the GMC appealed against a lower court ruling that expert witnesses were "immune" from GMC action.

At the talk, on Sunday, March 16, she told of her defence and the pressures of the trial as well as life as a homeopathic GP.

KEMPTON PARK
A JOCKEY CLUB RACECOURSE

Conservation area may be expanded

Kingston Council is currently investigating the extension of Park Road conservation area to include gems of domestic architecture such as Orchard Cottages.

This little-known backwater, tucked away behind Park Road as a reminder that this area was once rural, is a well-preserved Victorian shopping parade.

The area would also include examples of Victorian domestic architecture at its best in Brunswick Road, Clifton Road and the lower slopes of Kingston Hill.

The area incorporates part of the historic route to and from London – originally a turnpike road, with a toll gate at the Manorgate Road junction.

The council proposes to extend the conservation area to take in Burnham Street, which retains terraced cottages built for "the labouring classes" in the 19th century.

Kingston's senior conservation officer, Tony Hall, wants the views of owners, occupiers, businesses and organisations in the area before any final decision.

Disabled kept at bay

Fighting for space: Alan Boddy with his wife Pamela in Cambridge Gardens estate Deadlinepix KT19886 Disabled residents on a Kingston estate are angry they have had to fight for 18 months to get disabled parking spaces – with still no end in sight.

Alan Boddy and wife Pamela, both 71, are both disabled and do not have the strength to walk further than the 25m (80ft) to the car park on the Cambridge Gardens estate.

When they cannot park in one of the 146 spaces, which they claimed happened more than half of the time, they are forced to park further down the road and face an agonising walk.

The Cambridge Gardens Residents' Association has been fighting for almost a year but has been told by the council that the job was too expensive.

Mr Boddy, who has had thrombosis in his legs for the last five years, has also taken his case to Kingston and Surbiton MP Edward Davey.

He said: "I have lived in Kingston all my life, I have paid my taxes and my road tax and this is what I get."

His wife added: "I have got weak hips and I can fall at any time."

"I have fallen over in the middle of the road."

"I have to watch every step."

Caryn Goater, vice-chairman of the residents' association, said: "There are 146 bays for 160 properties. That might have been fine in the old days but now we have more cars than we do spaces."

A council spokesman said disabled parking bays were due to be introduced across the borough within the next three months, after a full survey had been carried out.

A contractor would carry out all the work at one time to keep costs down, rather than responding to individual requests, he said.

He apologised to residents for the delay.

BIKE CLASS: Any-one puzzled by punctures and baffled by brakes might consider bike maintenance classes at the Environment Centre in Fairfield East. PRETTY IN PINK: Praise has been heaped on to scouts Jessie Stewart and Maisie Green who, off their own back, decided to raise money for Breast Cancer Research by hosting two pink parties. The parties, one for the cubs and one for the scouts at 1st Tolworth, raised over £40, showing that scouts really do think of others before themselves.

"How I Transformed My Kitchen Without Having to Buy a New One"

"I would recommend Dream Doors every time"

"My kitchen was over 10 years old and looked tatty. I desperately needed a new kitchen but didn't want the cost or upheaval. I had heard good reports of Dream Doors, who specialise in kitchen facelifts, so I decided to give them a try. What an amazing transformation!

As well as fitting brand new doors and worktops, everything was colour co-ordinated and I even gained additional cupboard space. My kitchen has been transformed in just over a day and I saved 60% of the cost of a new one!

I was under no obligation from the initial visit, and the advice and estimate I received were free of charge. There was no mess, no fuss, just plenty of friendly, helpful advice and I didn't need to pay the balance until I was completely satisfied!

Molly has her day

From poodles to pointers, dachshunds to great danes, the Kingston Guardian has searched high and wide to discover who is Kingston's Best Dog.

And after a long hunt, with a phenomenal response from our readers, the results are finally in. The winner, by a landslide, is Molly Valentine.

It seems all and sundry in Kingston were smitten by Molly and her tale of being traced all the way to Poole, Dorset, by her owners, the Bowyers.

by PETER TRUMAN

ptruman@london.newsquest.co.uk

Debbie Bowyer and her family, who live in Kingston, knew what dog they wanted after they spotted their dream dog while shopping in Ham Village more than a year ago.

And using some detective skills, they traced the dog, Harry, to Dorset and drove down to find five pups and Molly.

Molly seemed to choose her family, tumbling over to them and licking Simon Bowyer, Debbie's husband, on the hand.

When she discovered Molly had won, Debbie Bowyer said: "Of course, we thought we had Kingston's Best Dog – but we didn't realise that the rest of Kingston agreed with us."

"Our daughters, Katie at university and Sarah at Esher College, were so excited to hear the news."

"Since her picture was first in the paper, we have been stopped in Canbury Gardens and Richmond Park by admirers pledging their support – so a big thank you to Molly's friends and neighbours for voting for her."

Debbie and family were presented with a bottle of champagne and a certificate to show Molly is Kingston's Best Dog.

And Debbie was sure that everyone in the family would enjoy celebrating the win, especially Molly.

She added: "Molly is far too young to indulge but I think she will get some extra treats this week and her favourite, roast chicken, tonight."

"It just goes to show we were justified in making that long trek to Poole twice in search of a blue roan cocker spaniel from a particular dynasty."

And congratulations to our text voter who won a bottle of champagne. The winner was Alan Ede from Sutton.

Store's recycling bins runneth over...

Keen recyclers were greeted to a display of plastic bag pandemonium because of severe winds at the Tesco store in New Malden last week.

One onlooker said: "It's pretty disgusting and can't provide much incentive to recycle."

"The high winds have not helped but the containers must have needed emptying for some time to get into this state."

What a mess: Plastic bag pandemonium at the Tesco recycling bins after high winds

Hammer threat in robbery

A man was mugged by a hammer-wielding teenager while on his way to work.

Leslie Jones, 53, was walking from his home in Victoria Avenue to work at Coombe Wood Golf Club at 4.15am on Thursday, March 13, when he was approached by three teenagers and robbed of £10 cash.

He claims they surrounded him from different directions in Villiers Road before demanding cash and a mobile phone. One of them was carrying a small claw hammer.

When he said he did not carry a mobile and offered them his personal stereo the robbers decided it was not worth enough and refused it.

Mr Jones said: "They were very calm and they weren't making threatening noises. It could have been a lot different if someone had stood up to them or showed a lot of fear.

"The day before I was going to work and there was a girl going up Villiers Road wearing a mini dress coming back from a party. If she had met them anything could have happened to her."

Mr Jones called police from his mother's house and officers drove him round the area in an attempt to catch the men.

They were not spotted and police are still investigating.

A police spokeswoman said: "Due to Kingston's positive knife prosecution we are seeing less knives on the streets of Kingston, which may be the reason why a small hammer was used in this case."

"However, this was an isolated incident."

Expensive air

A New Malden man with a history of driving without a licence or insurance repeated both crimes on February 4 because he needed a breath of fresh air, Kingston Magistrates' Court heard on Thursday.

Sung Kuk Mun, 30, of Woodfield Gardens, pleaded guilty to both offences after being stopped by police while driving his brother-in-law's Saab 93 in Cambridge Road, New Malden.

Mun received eight penalty points and was fined £485.

Asbestosis fear

A woman whose mother died of suspected exposure to asbestos in a school in Wales is trying to highlight the problem.

Renee Blodwen Eden, 69, died of asbestos-related lung cancer having worked at three schools in Flintshire and there are fears more teachers and pupils could be at risk.

Her daughter Kate, who lives in Kingston, works in the health industry and has been trying to raise awareness of the issue.

Her father Allan added: "It's like an iceberg."

"All they [hospital consultants] are seeing at the moment is the tip and by 2015 there could be considerably more deaths."

Nursery delight

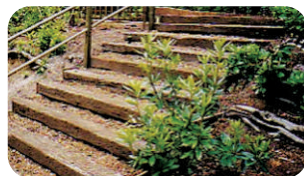

A new nursery was given the mayoral seal of approval when its doors were officially opened on Saturday, February 23.

Kingston mayor Councillor Shiraz Mirza spoke of his delight visiting the Sutherland Day Nursery in Tolworth, a new purpose-built nursery.

MENTAL

Happy Soul was set up to get ethnic minority people discussing mental health. CHLOE LAMBERT reports

Learn the symptoms

Mental illness is nothing to be afraid of – that was the message from TV comedian Meera Syal, who came to Mitcham last week as part of the Happy Soul film and arts festival.

The week-long festival aimed to reach out to ethnic minority communities in Merton, Wandsworth, Sutton, Richmond and Kingston with Bollywood stars, reggae nights and black British film just some of the events on offer.

More than 100 people crammed into the Ethnic Minority Centre at Vestry Hall, Mitcham, to meet Mrs Syal and enjoy a delicious spread of tea, samosas, pilau and curry.

She spoke out about her personal experiences with mental illness and encouraged the audience to learn the symptoms so they could recognise it in themselves.

Now in its second year, Happy Soul was created to get people from ethnic minorities talking about mental health, a subject which is often bottled up, covered up or ignored in their communities.

Research shows, for example, that black men are over-represented in the mental health system because they fail to acknowledge the signs in themselves. By the time they seek help, their problem has become chronic.

Happy soul: Meera Syal speaking in Mitcham

Meanwhile, Asian people tend to contain their mental health problems in the family and are less aware of the services that are available to them.

Sabriti Ray, project co-ordinator at the Ethnic Minority Centre in Mitcham, said: "People we see from India, Bangladesh and Africa often have depression from the weather here and living in a foreign country. There may be issues over forced marriage and employment.

"They think there is shame in talking about their problems and they want to keep it to themselves.

"It's important people don't sit inside, but come out and talk to us. We all have our problems. That's what Meera was saying."

Highlights of the festival included a special preview of the Korean romantic drama I'm A Cyborg at the Kingston Odeon and a screening of the first black British feature film Pressure, followed by a question and answer session with director Horace Ove.

Bollywood actress Konkona Sen Sharma also flew in from Mumbai, as her film, 15 Park Avenue, was shown at Odeon Wimbledon. The film depicted a young Indian woman and how her relationships change when she is diagnosed with schizophrenia.

Festival organiser Cary Sawhney said: "Films and arts are a great way of breaking the ice and getting people talking. All the films we showed were great films first and foremost, but they also had a theme and showed the pressures that can cause people to struggle with mental health."

Young people from schools and community groups made short films about the mental health issues affecting their lives, which were shown at the Odeon cinema in Wimbledon.

The film Losing It, made by Bj Balogun of the Wandsworth Community Empowerment Network, was voted the judges' favourite.

Shot on a low budget in just two days, Losing It looked at a young man named Marcel who struggles to battle his inner demons when he loses his job and has relationship problems.

Mr Balogun, 32, said: "When I heard about the festival, I really wanted to do something because I have five or six friends who have got mental health problems.

"We live in a multimedia world. Film is a good way to raise awareness and get the message across."

The snap-happy winners of this year's Kirkin photographic competition were treated at a reception held in Kingston Museum.

The competition is held annually by Kingston Museum and the Friends of Kingston Museum and Heritage in memory of Les Kirkin, a distinguished Kingston photographer who made many contributions to the Royal borough's picture archive until his death in 2001.

Competitors were asked to produce photos that were not just good in themselves, but also illustrated contemporary topographical and social aspects that will be valuable to future researchers.

As such, they find a permanent place in the museum's local history collection.

This year's winner was Hugo Harris, an 11-year-old Kingston schoolboy whose subject was cars stuck in Kingston's flooded Kings Road on July 20.

The runners-up were Keith Hathaway of Thames Ditton with "sub-urban withdrawal symptoms" – a queue at an HSBC Bank cash machine; Sandra Jolly of Surbiton with "A couple out shopping on

Runner-up: Verna Evans' A seat for all seasons was runner-up Tolworth Broadway"; and Verna Evans of Richmond with "A seat for all seasons", which comprises 13 pictures taken throughout 2007 from a seat near the junction of Church Street and Market Place.

The prizes – mainly sponsored by Kingston Rotary Club – were presented by Les Kirkin's widow, Rose, and Hilary Buzasi, chairman of Rotary's community and vocational committee. Kingston Adult Education also supported the event.

Farewell to Kingston likely despite niche

Barry Siddons of Books, Bits and Bobs speaks to ALITA HOWE about why the area has changed beyond recognition

The shop started as part of a family business? What is the history behind it?

It is an offshoot of various family businesses we have had.

My old man started from scratch in the 50s buying and selling in Brady's Arcade in Kingston.

It was a bit of a jumble sale – quite embarrassing for me as a young man.

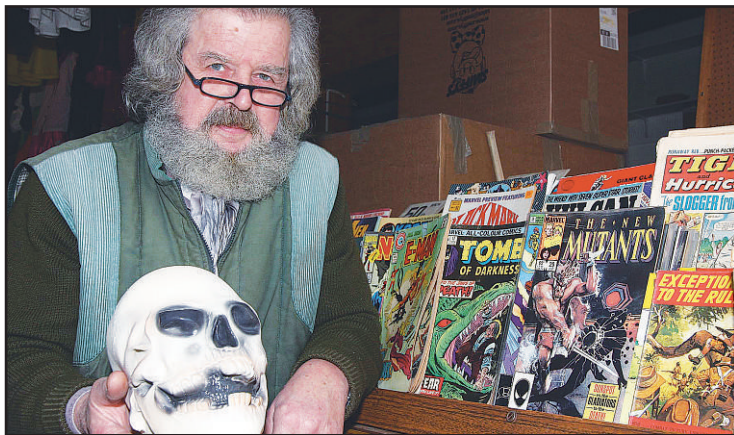

We then moved to Kingston station, where my parents ran a newsagent and I ran a second hand shop before my mother and sister established Books, Bits and Bobs over the road in 1961.

Are you pleased to be staying in Kingston for the time being?

They are mixed feelings – I have run the shop down over the last three years thinking we would close.

Our future is very uncertain – I'm not looking past the next six months. I would like to stay in Kingston but it is just not a very viable proposition – the town has become so developed that the rents and rates these days wouldn't work for me.

The rent was about £6 a week when we started – now everything is talked about in thousands – such big money.

Uncertain: Barry Siddons' shop was set up in 1961 Deadlinepix KT19383

What do you think of the extensive regeneration taking place in Kingston?

I'm old hat now but I remember when things were different and Kingston was a real market, historical town.

The Coronation Stone, for example; nobody would know it was there now.

Kingston looks very much the same as any other town with the same businesses and high street shops – Kingston has lost a sense of character.

Are small businesses such as yours being forgotten?

Yes. Books, Bits and Bobs is just a bit of an oddball shop now but there does still seem to be a place for it and it has kept us well through the years.

I'm resigned to the fact we will go at some point – I see businesses come and go all the time and there's no one left from when we were first around.

A very special organisation

More than 32,000 people from all over the world have been VSO volunteers since 1958. Working in countries from Bangladesh to Zambia volunteers have changed their lives and made a real difference to thousands of others.

Judith Brodie, director of VSO UK says: "VSO believes that people can make a real difference to other people and so we focus on linking people together to share skills and experience to learn from each other.

"There is so much to gain from volunteering with VSO, not only the experience of living in a different country, but also an insight into how the

For 50 years people from the UK have been helping poor communities overseas through international development charity VSO. In its 50th anniversary year VSO is challenging more people to volunteer and discover what their skills could do to help tackle global poverty world operates. Volunteering is a two-way process, so as well as the volunteers going to share their skills they also learn a lot too. Coming back to the UK volunteers can share what they've learnt and so bring their two communities together."

Fast Facts about VSO

- VSO is an international development charity that works through skilled professional volunteers in 34 countries mostly in Africa and Asia.
- Since 1958 VSO has sent over 32,000 people to share their skills with some of the poorest communities in the world.

- VSO recruits volunteers not only from the UK but also Canada, India, Ireland, Netherlands, Kenya, Philippines, and Uganda.

- Thirty one per cent of VSO volunteers are over 50, and the average age of VSO volunteers is 41.

- VSO recruits volunteers with skills and experience in education, health, business and management, engineering and natural resources.

- VSO also has two programmes for people aged 18-25, Youth for Development and Global Xchange.

What they say about VSO

"VSO is a great organisation because it brings together the skills and talents of professionals and shares them with other individuals for the betterment of both people."

Jonathan Dimpleby, broadcaster and VSO President
"I am passionate about VSO

Judith Brodie continued: "Volunteering is only one of the ways to get involved with VSO's work. We also run campaigns and exciting events and fundraising activities, that all contribute to VSO's goal to fight poverty in developing countries. There will be events all over the UK during 2008 to celebrate VSO's anniversary, we want people to come along and see what VSO can do for you."

In March VSO will be celebrating its anniversary with three events in Edinburgh, Bristol and London.

Funding available for eco-ventures

Kingston Council has made £25,000 available for voluntary and community organisations to run environmental projects over the coming year.

Grants of up to £10,000 will be provided for schemes that tackle climate change, increase recycling and reduce waste.

It is the second year such funds have been made available, with 12 projects successful in securing funding in 2007.

These included Refugee Action Kingston, which got £5,200 for an environmental awareness project for asylum seekers, and Coombe Hill Infant School, which received £423 for shrubs, a solar powered fountain and rainwater butt.

by MATT WATTS

mwatts@london.newsquest.co.uk

Councillor Rolson Davies, executive member for the voluntary sector, said: "Projects that involve collaborative work between organisations or those that support small, emerging groups to develop their ideas will have the best chance."

Most grants awarded are likely to be between £1,000 and £5,000 to maximise the number of projects supported, and all schemes should directly benefit Kingston residents.

Applications must be received by the council's voluntary sector unit by Friday, April 18, but groups are welcome to contact the unit first to discuss their idea.

Applications will be assessed by a grants officer in conjunction with specialist officers from environmental services.

The final decision on which projects will get funding will be made by the council's executive committee.

Coun Davies said: "Last year's environmental grants have helped to get some exceptional projects up and running. I look forward to seeing this year's applications with great anticipation."

For more information or application forms, visit kingston.gov.uk/grants or email grants@rbk.kingston.gov.uk Alternatively, call 020 8547 6072 or 020 8547 6068.

Bin cartons

Recycling waxed-cardboard drink cartons in Kingston has become easier with the introduction of further specialised bins at key recycling points around the borough.

Raeburn Avenue in Surbiton, Cocks Crescent car park and Sheephouse Way in New Malden, Cox Lane in Chessington, and the Hawker Centre in Kingston have all received a second bin for drinks cartons.

Land shift

Kingston Council's cabinet approved the borough's green spaces strategy for the next 10 years at its meeting on March 11.

The strategy will look at how the council manages its public playing fields, parks, allotments and play areas. It is now awaiting council approval at the next full council meeting on March 25.

Anger at proposals to change bus lane times

Traders and motorists are angry at plans to extend the operating hours of a bus lane in an already traffic-clogged route in Kingston.

I got a £100 fine right where he is standing in that picture. Two wheels went all of two metres in the lane to avoid hitting a car.

Ric, Kingston

1,500 deer killed in parks

Nearly 1,200 deer have been shot in the Richmond Park cull in the past six years, figures show.

Nice one, they put a new big stag into the park for breeding purposes and then kill the deer because there are too many, then they put a couple of cows in.

Who on earth is the brains behind all this? And then to announce how many they are killing each year is disgusting. Leave the deers.

Mandy, Kingston

Does Ken want more congestion zones

Ken Livingstone is secretly planning to extend congestion charging to Sutton, Croydon, Kingston and Hounslow, according to The Times.

I have no problem with him bringing the congestion charge in IF... and here's the clincher, he improves transport links.

That means we need a decent Tube or tram system covering all of the areas he's talking about as the train system is not fit for purpose.

Also, a decent bus system and better traffic planning. Until then, he has no reason to start trying to charge residents this blatant tax on the middle classes.

Talking up the chances of nuclear disarmament

People sometimes talk as if – with the end of the Cold War in the 1990s – nuclear weapons had become “so last year”. What happened to the weapons? Did they all get recycled and made into solar panels?

Unfortunately not, which is why Kate Hudson was invited by Kingston Peace Council/CND to come and speak on March 11 as part of the Think in Kingston Festival of Ideas. Kate, the chair of the national Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, reminded the audience that there are 27,000 nuclear weapons in the world. These are in the possession of nine countries including the UK. Each of the – some 200 – UK warheads is eight times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

The history of CND since its foundation in 1958 was outlined. The organisation is sometimes criticised for having failed to get rid of nuclear weapons.

This is quite odd because CND members would love to get rid of the weapons and work hard campaigning and lobbying to do just that. Getting the powerful to give up their weapons was never going to be an easy task.

Anyone who would like to attend a Kingston Peace Council meeting can call Hilary Evans on 020 8892 4850 or email evans39@gotadsl.co.uk.

Ask questions over fortnightly collections

As a resident of north Nottinghamshire, I feel I can offer my experience of fortnightly rubbish collection, as we have had it since 2005.

For over two years, fortnightly rubbish collection has worked almost flawlessly with recycling increasing from 3 per cent to over 36 per cent and rising, the issue of recycling is now progressing to a much more mature level of discussion. Minor problems of “contamination” (wrong plastics in the wrong bin) are running at an all time low (about 5 per cent) allowing large scale recycling and the consequent jobs increase and carbon dioxide reductions to follow at an all-time record.

Fear of change of the status quo unfortunately dominates many vital national and international issues that our growing population desperately needs.

From mine and the 750,000 Nottinghamshire residents' experience, the fortnightly question becomes a very, very trivial question when details of your local county council's contracts with large waste companies start to be revealed.

You desperately need to start asking your council about the details before you are left with a very large bill and a woeful 30-year contract. Questions such as: Plans for incineration? Where will the toxic ash go? Local landfill site?

Recycling plans to stick to the Government minimum for 30 years at 52 per cent? Which can, and is, easily exceeded if their is the political will

Housing failure is a result of mismanagement

Once again, there is a renewed attempt to stampede council tenants into opting for stock transfer to a housing association with a combination of misinformation and airy assumptions.

It is an error to suggest that the return to the Government of £5.5/£6.5million comes from the taxpayer.

It comes out of council rents and is levied on those councils that have no outstanding debts on their housing stock. This council owns its stock free of charge and the whole of the housing revenue is available to maintain it.

Other councils have managed to keep their stock in good repair and Kingston's failure to do so is either the result of appalling mismanagement, in which case its overpaid senior management should be sacked, or else it is a deliberate policy of neglect in order to drive its tenants into the arms of the private sector.

The obligation to upgrade the housing stock by 2010 is binding on both the councils and the housing associations, so the tenant is no better off one way or the other.

While it is true that the housing association will not be required to pay the levy, the money it borrows on the money market for the purchase and upgrade of the stock will have to be paid for at market rates.

It is inconceivable that this can be done without raising rents or welching on the deal.

Council housing is provided by the general public and council tax payers for the most needy among us, in recognition that decent, affordable housing is fundamental to public health, social order and the care, nurture and education of our children, the next generation's workforce.

It is a safety net – if not for us then for our children reaching adulthood in a more hostile economic environment than their parents.

Help for children turned away from first choice

Many parents have been disappointed with the schools that their children have been allocated this year.

In some parts of the capital, nearly half of all children were turned away from their first choice of school. All education authorities have a process for parents to appeal against their decisions on school allocation and I am pleased to tell you that the Legal Services Commission can help.

The LSC funds a number of specialist solicitors to offer specialist legal advice to people on benefits and low incomes. Readers can find details of education law experts on our website communitylegaladvice.org.uk or by contacting 0845 3454345.

The site has details of appeal procedures and a leaflet that parents can download for free.

NAME AND ADDRESS SUPPLIED

Friendly theatre staff is key to success I'm thrilled about the Rose

Like your correspondent Lydia Browne (Letters, March 12), I too was taken aback by the stark and utilitarian appearance of the Rose Theatre when I first walked through its doors.

But unlike Ms Browne, after a joyous evening watching Kit and the Widow perform live, I realised my initial assessment was quite superficial.

So what that the bars are short on tables?

So what if the walls are painted midnight blue?

The building will evolve in time.

What's important is that the staff are all friendly and enthusiastic, the performance space intimate and well-sighted, and the ticket prices within most people's reach.

The fact that you can bring a cushion, sit in the pit and enjoy a world-class play or cabaret act for just £7 is, surely, remarkable.

The National is a grim streaky concrete edifice but it's the theatre's artistic vision – not its decor – that has put it on the cultural map. Let's hope the Rose is half as successful.

DAVID JACOBSON
Surbiton

I would like to comment on Lydia Browne's letter published last week, about the Rose Theatre.

She must have gone to the theatre determined to find as much to criticise as possible.

I have been to the theatre twice, to see Uncle Vanya and a festival of music sung by our children of the borough. I thoroughly enjoyed myself.

I think the building is very different and attractive. I like the decor and find the warehouse look quite exciting, a change from the traditional look. The theatre itself is very intimate and charming.

I am personally thrilled we have a theatre in our town for all ages to enjoy and look forward to many further visits.

Culture plan launched

by ALITA HOWE

ahowe@london.newsquest.co.uk

A bubbling cultural hub in four years; this is the challenge laid out in "the best place to live" strategy approved by Kingston Council last week.

The strategy includes five central themes to make the borough a place where sport, art, learning and creativity are at the fore of people's thoughts.

The 22-page document states the central aim of the strategy is to create a sense of place, encourage residents' participation and creativity in cultural activities, improve literacy and maximise partnership opportunities from the 2012 Olympics, cultural olympiad and the Rose Theatre.

Colin Bloxham, principal arts officer at Kingston Council, welcomed the strategy and said the council's commitment to seeing the Rose Theatre open, proved the strategy was not a pointless endeavour and there was a dedication to improving the arts.

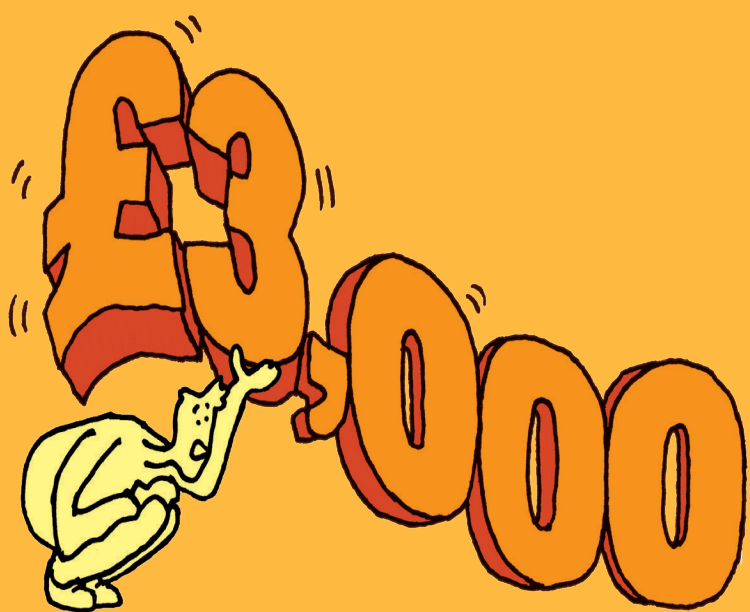

He said: "In terms of Kingston and its cultural offer, we are collectively trying to ensure the benefits of access to a huge community of cultural experiences are available to more people. The people we meet are very positive about Kingston's developing culture."

The strategy sets performance indicators for resident satisfaction with cultural amenities, aiming to increase happiness at theatres and concert halls from 19 per cent when it was last measured by a Mori poll in 2006 to 40 per cent by 2012.

It also plans to boost satisfaction with museums and libraries from 29 to 33 per cent.

Electric dreams

Electro is fast becoming the genre of choice on the ever-changing dance music scene.

With acts like Hot Chip gatecrashing both the radio airwaves and charts, and established artists such as Amy Winehouse eager to add an electro-tinge to their output, now seems the perfect time for computer whizzkids to make their presence felt.

Step forward Joseph Mount, better known as Metronomy, who is already cultivating a growing reputation among the nation's more discerning clubbers. But, as Mount admits, his success came from a quirk of fate rather than any great design.

He says: "I started off playing music in school bands and would usually play the drums.

"Then, when I was 16, I got my first computer and so ended up making electronic stuff by default, really.

GIGS: Metronomy, New Slang, The Works, Kingston

Simon Fitzjohn

"Because of the way I do things, it is less what I would consider 'dance' but I suppose the way it sounds is electronic."

Since the release of first album Pip Paine in 2006, Mount has been in demand, not just for his energetic live shows but also for his remixing.

And, having worked with artists such as Franz Ferdinand and Britney Spears, Mount reveals it is a far cry from his earlier days.

He adds: "First of all, I had to put myself about until people gave me a go.

"Now it is me getting approached.

"I am selective, though, it is far more enjoyable trying to change something poor into something I would like to listen to."

Mount, currently touring with band members Oscar Cash and Gabriel Stebbing, is awaiting the release of new long-player Nights Out. And he admits the waiting game is not one he is comfortable with.

He concludes: "It is ready but the record company just want to get the most out of it so are delaying its release.

"It is frustrating as it has been ready since before Christmas but that's all part of the business."

Metronomy New Slang, Works, Kingston, March 23. New single My Heart Rate Rapid released March 31. Album Nights Out released later in the year.

The world of Joseph...

● According to his MySpace page, Joseph was voted the Friendliest Man In Pop by the NME.

● The band Joseph would most like to work with is Girls' Aloud. "I think they'd be pretty malleable in the studio," he says.

● Joseph chose the name Metronomy as it "sounded cool and interesting".

Great Scot

COMEDY:
Des Clarke,
Outside The Box,
Kingston

Simon Fitzjohn

Glaswegian funnyman Des Clarke truly is a man of many talents. Having survived a tour of duty presenting kids' programme SM:TV, co-hosted the MTV Europe Awards and been a mainstay of Scottish TV's football coverage, Clarke is an act in demand.

But he readily admits comedy is his first love, even if he can't really pinpoint why.

Clarke says: "I wish there was an epiphany I could tell you about where a flaming statue of Billy Connolly appeared to me but there wasn't."

"I had always wanted to write and perform comedy and I went along to a few talent shows and thought I'd give it a go."

As with many stand-ups, though, the 27-year-old found there is a great difference between thinking you're funny and proving it.

He adds: "I really died on my arse in the first couple of gigs but the fact I kept coming back marked me out. It was like exorcising my demons."

"After a while, I started getting laughs and you start thinking, 'I could actually do this'."

"The first big laugh is a real turning point – it's a great feeling when you get through to an audience and establish a common bond."

Despite being a man in demand (we caught up with him just before a radio broadcast), Clarke did find time to answer a handful of our comic brain-teasers.

SF: Who is your favourite stand-up, past or present?

DC: Billy Connolly – to still be funny and a pensioner is amazing. The fact he is still at the top after so many years is unbelievable. He was a real maverick and an alternative comedian before the term was even invented.

SF: How does Scottish humour differ from English?

DC: Scottish humour is a bit more direct and aggressive. There is more power onstage, a real anger. That's true from Connolly right up to the likes of Frankie Boyle.

SF: Is there anything you've regretted saying to a star?

DC: I remember saying to Britney Spears she would be an icon for years to come and would still be beautiful well into her 40s so I might have made a mistake there!

SF: Is there anything you are addicted to?

DC: I absolutely love watching WWE wrestling but I'm not proud of it. I keep asking myself why I'm up at 1am watching this testosterone soap opera but I just love it.

SF: Do you have any talents?

DC: Probably not – I'm such an egotistical person, any talents I have I make sure everyone knows about! I suppose my main talent is making people laugh and I'm grateful to be able to have made a career out of it.

Des Clarke, Outside the Box Comedy Club, Fighting Cocks, Kingston, March 24, 7.30pm, tickets £4/8, call 07973 783339 for details.

Films What's on this week

DR SEUSS' HORTON HEARS A WHO! (U): The colourful characters and gentle wit of Dr Seuss provide the creative spark for this animated comedy, which promotes the valuable message of equality for all creatures. With lead voices provided by Jim Carrey and Steve Carell, it has plenty of aesthetic charms, but lacks well-sketched characters, genuine emotion and a constant stream of laughs. ★★★

THE SPIDERWICK CHRONICLES (PG): The Spiderwick Chronicles is a rollicking fairy-tale full of magic and mystery, based on the books by Tony DiTerlizzi and Holly Black, which reveal an alternative reality full of goblins and ogres. Freddie Highmore shines in dual roles in this fast-paced family movie. ★★★★★

STEP UP 2 THE STREETS (PG): With high-energy dance sequences, contrived romance and a beautiful cast of lithe young things with flat stomachs and even flatter dialogue, this works up just enough sweat to appeal to an undemanding teen audience. The script cares more about gravity-defying gymnastics than the characters' ability to communicate. ★★

MEET THE SPARTANS (12A): The search for the year's worst film is over. This latest, ahem, comedy from the creators of Scary Movie, Date Movie and Epic Movie is a truly soul-crushing experience, an excruciating spoof of the sword and sandals romp 300. Cast includes Sean Maguire and Carmen Electra. ★

THE ORPHANAGE (EL ORFANATO) (15): Scares are disappointingly thin on the ground in this Guillermo Del Toro produced film. Director

Witty: The new Dr Seuss movie

Juan Antonio Bayona conjures an atmosphere of foreboding but there is little in his haunted house we haven't seen before. ★★

LOVE IN THE TIME OF CHOLERA (15): The magical realism of Gabriel García Márquez's epic novel translates awkwardly to the big screen in Mike Newell's laughably misjudged adaptation. Oscar winner Javier Bardem delivers a lifeless performance as Florentino Ariza, and the film feels considerably longer than 138 minutes. ★★

LARS AND THE REAL GIRL (12A): Ryan Gosling stars in this inventive love story. It's an amusing and ultimately life-affirming journey into the human soul, revolving around a painfully shy man's infatuation with a life-size love doll. Lars And The Real Girl is a breath of fresh air. ★★★★★

HANNAH MONTANA & MILEY CYRUS: BEST OF BOTH WORLDS TOUR 3D (U): If you're not already a fan of Miley Cyrus and her Disney Channel show, then Bruce Hendricks's film won't convert you. Shot during the recent US tour, this is a 75-minute promo for the Hannah Montana brand. The songs are instantly forgettable. ★★

10,000 BC (12A): Director Roland Emmerich's latest blockbuster has dreadful dialogue, risible plotting and wafer-thin characterisation. This journey through the dawn of time tramples over historical and geographical accuracy. There are lighter moments but many of the laughs are unintentional. ★★

THE COTTAGE (18): Paul Andrew Williams changes pace dramatically from his gritty debut London To Brighton to serve up a Brit horror comedy as bungling kidnappers find themselves menaced by crazy yokels in an entertaining, if gory, countryside romp. Andy Serkis, Jennifer Ellison and Reece Shearsmith star. ★★★★★

Antagonist: Lead singer Fi Killpatrick models her attitude on 70s punks

Prepare to be punked

Attitude is a rare and precious commodity in the world of modern music.

With the airwaves drowning in the sounds of prepackaged pop and faceless Euro-dance, the days of charismatic, interesting bands seem a distant memory.

But Midlands-based Dragster are doing their best to buck that trend, unleashing a furious audio assault on Kingston this weekend.

Their lead singer, Fi Killpatrick, offers her opinion on their sound: "We have been described as The Stooges meets Motorhead, which I think is a decent comparison."

"We are influenced from 60s garage bands, melded with the rawness of 70s punk, with a little rockabilly thrown in for good measure."

Fi, along with guitarist

GIGS: Dragster, Fighting Cocks, Kingston

Simon Fitzjohn

Diesel, emerged from the ashes of former band Pigface to launch Dragster a few years ago, recruiting guitarist AC Speed, bass player Tom AK and drummer Spritzza.

And she admits they are eager to establish their own image.

Fi says: "I think our sound is pretty unique and separates us from what is traditionally known as 'punk'."

"We appeal to punk fans who are interested in how the scene can progress."

"Punk started as an attitude not a genre. I'd rather have the attitude than the sound otherwise it defeats the original antagonists' objectives."

Dragster are on the promotional rounds as they prepare to unleash their second album in October and, with a management deal recently signed in the United States, things are definitely on the up for the Coventry band.

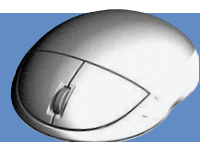

And Fi gives a taste of what fans can expect at their gig.

She adds: "It will be energetic, loud, fast and in your face. It is interactive so, if anyone does stand at the front, they can expect to become part of the show."

"Just a little warning for your readers!"

Dragster, Fighting Cocks, Kingston, March 22, 7.30pm, call 020 89746469 for details.

Make a Splash

EXHIBITIONS:

Splash of Colour, Robert Phillip's Gallery, Walton

Simon Fitzjohn

Stitching, painting and quilting may not be the first things that spring to mind when one thinks of art gallery exhibitions but the Robert Phillips Gallery is producing just that with its forthcoming display, A Splash of Colour.

The work of local art group Fabrications, the exhibits are an exploration of contemporary trends and development of a personal language. Fabrications comprises seven local textile artists who have been delighting art lovers with their unique works since their formation 19 years ago.

Joan Matthews, one of the current line-up, reveals the group began from humble beginnings.

She says: "It all started when some of the original members thought, if they worked together, it would be easier to put on displays.

"We try to put on a major exhibit at least once a year and always consider our work to be very challenging."

A Splash of Colour employs stitching, quilt-ing, print and paper as each artist offers up their vision. And Matthews hopes visitors will find something to stimulate them.

She explains: "We are trying to stretch the imagination. It is all new work and there should be something to appeal to all."

Fabrications have no intention of slowing down on their output and Matthews feels confident they will continue to produce exhibits for many years to come. And she insists the 'one for all' approach is the reason for their longevity.

She adds: "Every artist gets to exhibit between three and five pieces so everybody gets an equal billing.

"We always have a very loose title and then we all take that theme and interpret it the way we want to.

"That keeps everything fresh and everybody interested."

EXHIBITIONS:

Magic In The Nursery, Kingston Museum

Simon Fitzjohn

Children and the young-at-heart are in for a treat in Kingston over the next two months when the museum launches Magic In The Nursery.

The exhibition will focus on the artwork used in the classic children's books of Walter Crane and Randolph Caldecott, famed as the founding fathers of the modern picture book.

More than 40 images will form the centre-piece of the exhibition, although musical instruments, large-format nursery-rhyme lyrics and other children's memorabilia will be on show.

All items come courtesy of Graphicus Touring group, which is showcasing the pieces across the country.

Museum spokeswoman Peta Cook explains: "We felt it was a challenging

There will be plenty to see and do as the museum plans to install replica models of classic nursery-rhyme scenes along with the other exhibits.

And Cook is hopeful the exhibition will prove the launchpad for interesting debate.

She adds: "We are having a wide range of events over the two months. There will be workshops and we are working closely with local schools and the university.

"But it is not just academic-based as we hope a lot of families will enjoy the displays.

"It has been a lot of hard work getting all the exhibits together but we hope it will pay off when the public get to see it."

Magic in the Nursery runs at Kingston Museum from March 25 to May 31.

Suzuki makes a splash

By Steve Walker

Casting its Splash into the deep end of the mainstream European supermini MPV sector, Suzuki might appear to be heading for a fall but this isn't another Japanese Kei car oddity. Developed and manufactured in Europe to European tastes, the Splash demands to be taken seriously.

Suzuki is offering a range of two engines with the Splash. Both are mated to five-speed manual gearboxes but there's the option of a four-speed automatic with the petrol unit. Things start off with an 85bhp 1.2-litre 4-cylinder option. Suzuki's European focus with the Splash is underlined by the presence of a 1.3-litre diesel engine. It's manufactured under licence from Fiat and it delivers 73bhp, courtesy of an advanced common-rail direct injection architecture.

The way the Splash drives will be crucial to its prospects and Suzuki's design team were under no illusions about this during development. The European market that the Splash has been created to crack wants a more cultured and responsive driving experience than cheap and cheerful Kei cars usually serve up. To this end, the Splash development programme took in tens of thousands of miles on Europe's toughest roads.

The Splash rides on a modified version of the Swift platform with a 30mm shorter wheelbase. At just 3.72m long, it's compact and should prove well suited to the cut and thrust of our urban centres. Safety is another crucial constituent part of a small family vehicle and the Splash has an impressively complete specification in this regard. ABS with brake assist and electronic brakeforce distribution are included, as is ESP stability control. Six airbags are dotted around the interior, plus there are seatbelt force limiters and pre-tensioners for the front seats.

The fact that the Splash is a small car with small engines bodes well for its environmental performance, even if measures to Europeanise the product away from its Kei car roots have inevitably added weight. Emissions of 120g/km from the 1.3DDiS diesel will render the car tax friendly enough. The diesel engine also posts the best economy figures but buyers will need to weigh these savings up against their projected annual mileage and the price premium that the oil-burner will command. It's often the case that petrol makes the most cost effective choice in a small car that's used mainly for getting about town.

Suzuki wants the Splash to be viewed as a serious contender in the major European markets and this mission is evidenced throughout the car's make-up. The styling, the engines, the emphasis on the driving experience: it all gives the Splash a distinctly European flavour where Suzuki's past small car offerings have always been overwhelmingly Japanese. It's hardly surprising when the car has been researched, developed and built in Europe but Suzuki will be hoping European motorists appreciate its efforts and offer up a steady stream of European currency by way of reward.

Title quest: Alex Groves, right, and Max Richardson

Groves seeks national gold

Rising Surbiton sailing star Alex Groves and partner Max Richardson will look to add the 2008 29er RYA youth national championships and trials title to their U19 29er world crown from next weekend.

The 16-year-olds were the second Brits in two years to win the youth 29er world title, also clinching overall bronze at the World Championships in Australia in January.

They will start among the favourites at the premier event for youth sailors, being held at Pwllheli Sailing Club in North Wales from March 29-April 4.

Euro title tilt

Twins Andrew and Michael Freeman and their Kingston Trampoline Academy clubmate Emma Britton have been selected to compete at the European Championships in Odense, Denmark, at the end of April.

The Freemans will be competing in the synchronised event, with Andrew also lining up for the individual event, for which Michael is reserve.

Emma has been selected for the youth synchronised event, and is awaiting a decision on her individual place.

KTA academy director Sarah Silvester has been selected as coach for the youth team.

Ks focus on play-off quest

by STUART AMOS

samos@london.newsquest.co.uk

Kingstonian boss Alan Dowson has banned any talk of the Surrey Senior Cup from his dressing room to keep his players' eyes on a play-off push.

Ks smashed Ryman Division One South rivals Tooting & Mitcham 4-0 in the semi-finals last Tuesday only to be told they face being kicked out of the competition for fielding an illegible player.

The Terrors have lodged an appeal with the Surrey FA over Shawn Beveney's appearance in the clash after his switch from Dulwich Hamlet.

Competition rules say players must be registered with a club 28 days prior to a semi-final – despite Ks bringing the fixture forward at Tooting's request.

Even if Ks retain their place in the final at Imber Court on May 6, no mention of the debacle will be made while Dowson is within earshot.

"The Tooting result was the best I have ever been involved with as a manager. Nobody can take away that result from us," he said.

"It was a great performance,

Appealing: Kingstonian scorer Bobby Traynor pleads his case during Saturday's 3-2 victory over Worthing at Kingsmeadow Deadlinepix SP18893 but I won't hear another word about the Surrey Senior Cup.

"It doesn't matter if we miss a cup final because we have got at least seven of them before the end of the season anyway."

Simon Huckle's 75th-minute headed goal saw Ks notch a 3-2 triumph over Worthing on Saturday, putting them back in the frame for a top five finish.

Bobby Traynor and Tom

Williams had twice given them the lead.

SEVEN PAGES OF SPORT: in this week's Surrey Comet

Sulking Casuals have Holloway spitting chips

Assistant manager Keith Holloway slammed Corinthian Casuals' indiscipline after their nine men slumped to defeat on Saturday, writes Simon Fitzjohn.

Casuals went down 3-1 at Burgess Hill after red cards for Paul Smith and Lee Matthews scuppered their hopes of a rare win on the road. And Holloway had little sympathy.

He said: "People are always going to get booked, but I cannot accept people getting booked for verbals. The players really need to grow up.

"Instead of getting on with it they sulk, whine and whinge. The players have let Brian and me down and we will be taking internal action this week."

Matthews had given Casuals a surprise lead early in the second half before the red mist descended.

Casuals now face crunch Easter matches against Eastbourne Town (home) and Metropolitan Police (away).

Holloway said: "While they are not must-win games, they are must-not-lose games.

"We really need to look at beating Eastbourne and then anything we get at the Met will be a bonus."
